EJIBOLA ADETOKUNBO-TAIWO

Founder – W.E Hustle in Heels & Made by Africans

EJIBOLA'S BIO

Ejibola is a Pan-African Entrepreneur. An advocate for Women empowerment through entrepreneurship. Ejibola is the Founder and Chief Entrepreneur Executive of Made by Africans Inc.; the Founder of the Ejibola E.AT Collections, and Founder of W.E Hustle in Heels a platform that provides a tribe of diverse women hustlers (with significant emphasis on Immigrant women and the re-discovery of self in a new environment called home - Canada) an avenue to connect, relate, share and inspire each other and grow women leaders despite their busy hustling entrepreneurial journey.

Ejibola is one of the most recognisable young influential female leaders in Grande Prairie, Alberta carrying the message of enterprise and leadership to inspire hope and faith in women most especially women entrepreneurs and new immigrant women. Her mantra is building local to go global. Ejibola was a speaker for the TEDx Grande Prairie 2017 themed “Kick the Box” and she is also one of the speakers for the TEDx Grande Prairie 2019 themed “All We Need Is”

Ejibola is an alumna of the Dalhousie University in Halifax, the Sprott School of Business in Ottawa, Olabisi Onabanjo University and a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Bankers of Nigeria. Ejibola is a member of the City of Grande Prairie’s Community Enhancement Advisory Committee. She works full-time as Coordinator of the Grande Prairie’s Regional Innovation Network.

Ejibola is based in Grande Prairie, Canada, and you can follow her impact through her Instagram pages: ejibolaa, w.e hustle in heels and made by africans

“Without a doubt I can say that Ejibola is a really amazing woman that inspires me a lot, I can’t imagine all the sleepless nights she puts into her businesses. I admire her so much .. honestly .. because I know what it takes to start the businesses she’d launched. Her words empowers and elevate, she is a creative genius.”

Toyin Jones, W.E Hustle in Heels, Member

“Ejibola is a dynamic, engaging speaker, who presents her material in an interesting, relatable fashion. She is very personable and outgoing, which makes her entertaining and easy to listen to. In addition, she is well prepared, focused, and organized. Through her business experience and education, Ejibola is up on current business trends and ideas. Always the optimist, she is encouraging, motivating and inspirational. I would highly recommend her for speaking engagements.”

Carolyn Vasileiou, GPRC Instructor in Entrepreneurship

“Ejibola changes the game any time she starts a project. I love the way she is so involved within the community especially immigrant women and entrepreneurship. Keep up the good work Ejibola.”
